Series of Air Disasters on Pacific Rim

22 ON BOARD THREE PLANES ARE MISSING

Seattle (AP) — One plane was known today to have crashed and two others were missing in the latest series of aviation disasters along the North Pacific rim.

Twenty-two persons aboard the three planes were missing, including Capt. Julian D. Greer, commander of Fleet Air Wing 6, stationed at the Alameda Naval Air Station, Calif.

A total of 298 persons are known dead or are missing in 10 previous military plane disasters around the North Pacific rim from Tokyo to Alaska to Montana since last Nov. 7.

The pilot of a Central British Columbia Airways plane which went down Tuesday was found alive on a windswept beach 400 miles north of Vancouver, B. C., last night. Also found was the drowned body of one of his passengers.

Capt. Greer was aboard a U. S. Navy P-4Y patrol plane which vanished yesterday over the Puget Sound country of Western Washington on a flight from Alameda to Whidbey Island Naval Air Station, 50 miles north of here. Nine other Navy personnel were aboard the craft.

Missing in the Wilds of Central British Columbia was an RCAF Dakota which disappeared yesterday while on a training flight with seven men aboard.

James J. Siddle, pilot of the CBCA plane, said the craft sank after striking a submerged log when he tried to attempt an emergency landing. Siddle said when the plane started to sink he ordered the passengers to don life-jackets and make for the beach, 200 yards distant.

The Navy at Alameda also released the names of three men aboard the P-4Y, including Capt. Greer. The other two, both from Alameda, were identified as Lt. O. C. Everhart and Aviation Technician 1C T. W. Huffman.

Top Generals Meet In Tokyo for Talks On Korean Situation

Tokyo (AP) — Three of America's top generals met in Tokyo today for strategy talks on the Korean War.

Within an hour Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, and Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander — designate of the Eighth Army, flew in from opposite directions for conferences with Gen. Mark Clark, the U. S. Far East commander.

The meeting came amid continuing speculation that the war soon will take a new turn — either in a full-scale Allied offensive or in greater direct pressure against the Chinese Communist mainland.

Taylor leaves for Korea in a day or two to take command of the Eighth Army from retiring Gen. James A. Van Fleet, who has had the job since April, 1951.

Chesterman Report Suggests Doing Away With the Penn'a Internal Affairs Department

Forecaster Says New Cold Wave on Way

Pittsburgh (AP) — A new cold spell combined with snow flurries today to make Western Pennsylvania streets and roads extremely hazardous.

A snowfall of three to four inches was predicted for the north section and mountain regions, with a high temperature of 25 to 30 degrees. A maximum fall of two inches is in sight for the Pittsburgh area.

Skies are expected to clear and temperatures will drop tonight. Low tonight will be 16 degrees. Tomorrow it will be continued cold and somewhat cloudy with a high of 28 degrees.

SEEK CAUSE OF BLAZE ON HUGE LINER

Southampton, Eng. (AP) — A Scotland Yard expert joined detectives combing the British liner Queen Elizabeth today for clues to the cause of a fire that broke out — and was quickly put out — last night in a main deck cabin of the world's biggest ship.

"It might have been accidental, it might have been willful," said Southampton's chief constable Charles Box after the mid-evening blaze.

Reporting the fire, the British Press suggested sabotage.

Scotland Yard sent a specialist to examine charred wood which had been carefully preserved after the fire.

The 83,673-ton Cunard liner is in drydock, undergoing her annual overhaul before resuming transatlantic service to New York Feb. 11. Officials noted that smoking is banned among workmen refitting the ship in the King George V drydock.

The investigation into the blaze coincides with inquiries now underway in the fire destruction last week end in Liverpool of the Canadian trans-Atlantic liner Empress of Canada. Three small mystery fires broke out aboard the liner Queen Mary, sister ship of the Elizabeth, while she was in drydock here last month.

Police and detectives threw a tight guard about the ship, checking on everyone leaving or boarding her. Firemen stood by until late last night.

Congress Already Giving New President Bumpy Time Over Some of His Choices

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington (AP) — In office only 10 days, President Eisenhower already has had a bumpy time of it with Congress, where his own party is in control.

He has not had a break with the lawmakers. He has not suffered any major defeats or reverses at their hands yet. But they have refused to rubber-stamp his suggestions.

Most of his trouble has been over men he picked for high office. But the groundwork was laid this week to make it easier for Congress to block any Eisenhower attempts at reorganizing or streamlining the government.

His first bump was the nomination of Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Motors, as secretary of defense. When Wilson told the senators he saw no reason to sell his G. M. stock, the senators said "Whoa."

They pointed out he might have to pass on government contracts with G. M. if he was secretary. He said he could do it impartially. That wasn't the point, they said. They reminded him: There's a Harrisburg (AP) — A Chesterman Committee report calling for abolition of the Internal Affairs Department as "an administrative fifth wheel" drew a scathing reply today from William S. Livengood, internal affairs secretary.

"As presently constituted," the committee said, "the Department of Internal Affairs can be described only as an administrative fifth wheel with a hodge-podge collection of unrelated responsibilities — an agency that has no counterpart in either the federal government or any other state government."

Livengood answered that instead of being a fifth wheel, a study of the State Constitution will show the department was intended "to be the fourth wheel that gives it balance."

"The four wheels of the state government are the Governor's Department, Treasury Department, Auditor General's Department and the Department of Internal Affairs which was intended to be the balance wheel and should be now exactly as it was originally conceived by the writers of the Pennsylvania Constitution," said Livengood.

The committee, headed by Francis J. Chesterman, Philadelphia, was named by Gov. John S. Fine to study possible reorganization of state government.

Transfer of some of internal affairs functions to other departments, the committee decided would save $100,000 a biennium and a saving of an additional $100,000 is possible if the department were abolished.

Abolition of the department would take a constitutional amendment. Its secretary is elected by the people and the department is one of three on Capitol Hill not under the jurisdiction of the governor.

Without criticizing the manner in which the department's present duties are performed, the committee said that "no matter how efficient its operation, the department has no place in modern government."

The committee added, the department's:

1. Primary activities are not only unrelated to each other, but in a number of cases, overlap or encroach upon the functions of other agencies.
2. Responsibility includes both regulatory and promotional functions which usually demand two quite different approaches to administration.

SENTENCED IN STABBING

Pittsburgh (AP) — Chalmers V. Fogg, 36, of Carnegie, began serving a nine to 20 year Penitentiary sentence today for the fatal stabbing of Helen Smith, 42, Sept. 18. He pleaded guilty to murder.

(NEA Telephoto)

"UNDULY SEVERE" — Fred M. Saigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, arrives at the U. S. District Court in St. Louis to withdraw an innocent plea for evasion of income taxes. Saigh pleaded no contest to two counts and was sentenced to two months in prison and fined $15,000. Saigh told Judge Roy Weigand that he thought the penalty was "unduly severe."

Allegheny Officials Have Permission To Probe Penitentiary

Pittsburgh (AP) — Allegheny County officials have court permission to investigate Western State Penitentiary but the state will try to block the probe by appealing to a higher court.

Dist. Atty. James F. Malone was given a green light yesterday by Judge Sara M. Soffel of the Allegheny County Criminal Court. But Robert Woodside, Pennsylvania's attorney general, said he will appeal that decision to the State's Supreme Court in a day or two.

Judge Soffel ruled Malone "not only has the right but the duty to investigate" conditions at the prison which was swept by a 24-hour riot Jan. 18. The penitentiary also was the scene of a mass escape of eight prisoners in November.

Gov. John S. Fine has appointed a five-man committee to study penal institutions in the state. The committee is to meet with the governor in Harrisburg Monday.

Judge Soffel said the fact that a state committee has been named to investigate penal conditions is no hindrance to a local grand jury looking into the situation.

Buses Rolling Again On New York Streets

New York (AP) — The biggest bus strike in New York City's history ended early today and some buses started rolling.

Full resumption of service was not due until tomorrow. The strike of 8,200 drivers and maintenance men was entering its 29th day as the last of eight struck private bus companies signed an arbitration formula.

The strikers were ordered back to work by union chiefs. A three-man arbitration board will handle the wage-hour dispute between the companies and the CIO Transport Workers Union.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY OPPOSES BAD BOOKS

Pittsburgh (AP) — Six hundred Holy Name Society members in the Pittsburgh Roman Catholic Diocese will launch a drive Monday against obscene literature.

Working in pairs, the men will canvass every store in Allegheny County to persuade proprietors not to sell lurid books, magazines, and comics glorifying crime and sex. In the next two weeks, the drive will be extended to Beaver, Lawrence, Greene and Washington counties.

COMBAT RAID EXPLANATION IS DEMANDED

BULLETIN

Washington (AP) — Rep. Short (R-Mo.) today asked Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, will be asked to explain to Congress the details of the controversial "Operation Smack" in Korea.

Washington (AP) — Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) today asked the House to demand a full explanation from Defense Secretary Wilson for an American combat raid staged in Korea last Monday before invited guests.

The attack, known as "Operation Smack," stalled under heavy fire near the top of Spud Hill, north of Seoul. It was witnessed by Army and Air Force generals and war correspondents who were provided with advance timetables.

Hoffman has prepared a resolution asking the secretary of defense to explain "whether this raid was actually for justifiable military purposes or whether it was a show staged for some as yet unknown purpose."

The resolution probably will be referred to a House committee which may summon Wilson for an explanation.

Pentagon officials said they have requested a full report from the field. They said they had no information on "Operation Smack."

Another Republican House member, Bray of Indiana, said yesterday he had demanded an explanation from the Defense Department. Bray, an Army reserve colonel with four years' service in the Pacific, said he was "mad as hell" and "never heard anything like it."

A spokesman for the division which took part in the attack said in Korea today that "to call the operation a dress rehearsal is completely wrong."

The spokesman, who could not be identified for security reasons, said he considers Bray's criticism unfair and added: "There are no theatrical trappings. Not a single one. This is a deadly serious business and every one over here knows it."

News stories describing the assault and editorials commenting on them, the resolution said, "cause resentment among our people and interfere with the support which should be given the armed services."

Stevens Willing To Dispose of Stock In Textile Company

BULLETIN

Washington (AP) Robert T. B. Stevens and Harold Talbott agreed today to sell disputed stock interests to win Senate confirmation as secretaries of the Army and Air Force.

Washington (AP) — Robert T. B. Stevens said today he would dispose of his stock in a family textile company if the Senate Armed Services Committee insists he must to win approval as secretary of the Army.

If the committee feels I should dispose of my stock," he said, "I am prepared to do so."

Stevens, who earlier had asked for more time to decide the question, said he hoped the committee members would not "take quick action" on the issue.

Stevens went before the committee after President Eisenhower took a personal hand in the fight.

OPEN HOUSE AT CLARENDON TONIGHT

The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department, with headquarters in the borough building, will hold its open house tonight from 7:00 to 11:00. Refreshments will be served by the Ladies Auxiliary to the invited public.

Mothers March on Polio Tonight

The Event: Mothers' March on Polio.
The Place: All over Warren County.
The Date: Tonight.
The Time: Seven until eight o'clock.

Throughout Warren borough and its surrounding communities, final touches were being given today to detailed plans for the Mothers' March on Polio which will climax the 1953 March of Dimes campaign.

With announcement from Treasurer Ann McGary that total collections to date are only $3,152.92, Zonta Club members and the several hundred volunteer workers lined up realize a big task lies ahead in tonight's house to house canvass.

The time has been set from seven until eight o'clock, the contact mothers to visit every home in their respective districts where a porchlight signals willingness of the occupants to cooperate in the final March of Dimes effort.

Following the final call, borough workers will report to their lieutenants, who, in turn, will go to the city building in West Third avenue to turn over their collections to their captains.

On hand to make the tally of monies secured will be Mary Topper, Zonta president and director of the 1953 March of Dimes; Mildred Bendix, chairman for the borough; Lenore Thurston, county chairman; Ann McGary, treasurer for the entire campaign; along with other Zonta officers and members.

Miss Thurston will be in the state nurses' office at the city building to receive personal or telephoned reports from her county captains, a number of whom have stated their intention of bringing their reports in person.

The one detail of the plans which cannot be announced in advance is the measure of cooperation which will be given these volunteer workers in the homes they visit and, again, the Zonta Club and the Warren County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis ask that the response from the public be a generous one.

United Nations, N. Y. (AP) — The United Nations lined up its American employees today for fingerprinting as the first step of a screening process to weed from its staff American Communists or those deemed loyalty risks to the United States.

The fingerprinting began with a few women secretaries late yesterday, shortly after U. S. delegates with U. N. Secretary General Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., arrived Trygve Lie for the screening machinery. Today the process was to extend to the rest of the 1,681.

Medal for Father of Four Who Died In Futile Effort to Save Woman From Fire

Pittsburgh (AP) — The father of four who died in a futile effort to save an elderly woman from burning to death was one of three Pennsylvanians given recognition by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

He was Charles T. Walker, Sr., of nearby Coraopolis, whose widow was awarded a bronze medal and a $860 a year pension yesterday.

The other Pennsylvanians, who were among 17 persons from eight states cited by the hero commission are Nazareth A. Thomasetti, 42, of Pittston, and Melvin MacGill, 16, of Renovo.

Walker died in the daring rescue of Mrs. M. Louella Acheson, 87, last May 30, when her home was destroyed by fire. Walker, his four children and Mrs. Acheson were in the house when the fire broke out.

The father led his three sons to safety after an older daughter escaped. Then he re-entered the inferno and carried Mrs. Acheson from her second-floor bedroom to the front door.

Walker and Mrs. Acheson's crumpled forms were found near the door. Walker died nine hours later. Mrs. Acheson never recovered from her severe burns and died three months later.

Thomasetti was awarded a hero medal for his rescue of a fellow water-line maintenance man when a street excavation caved in at Pittston, Sept. 9.

MacGill jumped into the West Branch of the Susquehanna River at Renovo last June 6 and saved 12-year-old John W. Lane from drowning. Lane was drifting helplessly in a strong current.

The commission awards bronze, silver and gold medals, depending on the nature of the deeds. All 17 medals awarded this time were bronze.

IKE CALLS A WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower assembled his top military, foreign affairs and intelligence officers today for a full-dress review of the foreign situation and a discussion of cold war strategy.

He has expanded the conference with the National Security Council, bringing the heads of several agencies to the White House.

Along with the regular council members, Eisenhower called in Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, retiring chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Allen Dulles, designated to succeed Smith as CIA boss.

Vice President Nixon, Secretary of State Dulles, Secretary of Defense Wilson and Mutual Security Director Harold Stassen will attend the conference as members of the council. The President is chairman.

There were indications that both Western Europe and the Far East would be discussed.

Dulles and Stassen leave tomorrow for a 10-day tour of Western Europe. Their itinerary calls for meetings in Italy, France, England, Western Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

In a televised speech Tuesday night, Dulles said the plan for European defenses, which includes a mixed six-nation European army, "now seems to be somewhat stalled" and Eisenhower had asked him to make a quick survey.

Dulles said that, should defense efforts fail in Western Europe, "it would be necessary to give a little re-thinking to America's own foreign policy in relation to Western Europe."

The question is closely tied in with appropriations for foreign aid. (Turn to Page Sixteen)

Inquest Being Held In Patient's Death At State Hospital

A coroner's inquest is being held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Warren State Hospital, North Warren, to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of a patient, Mrs. Tena Bailey, 63, admitted some years ago from Clarion county.

Mrs. Bailey who died this morning about four o'clock, figured in an altercation in one of the wards of the Mitchell Building on January 14, when she sustained injuries that resulted in the removal of one eye. An autopsy being held today was expected to divulge the immediate cause of her demise.

According to a triple investigation launched today by Coroner Ed Lowrey, Sheriff L. E. Linder and Pvt. Joseph Mastrian, of the Pennsylvania State Police, the incident in which Mrs. Bailey was injured, occurred in a seven-bed dormitory. Other patients involved are of the type that can shed very little light on just what happened.

Members of the jury impaneled this morning are all residents of the North Warren area: Victor Julian, Owen Unangst, James Blomquist, Roger Hendricks, Walter Thayer and Elvis Sanden.

Mrs. Bailey's only known relative is her husband, W. G. Bailey, in Clarion.

Messner Clarifies Amended Corporate Net Income Tax Act

To further clarify the amendment passed at the last session of the State Legislature and affecting the Corporate Net Income Tax Act, Otto F. Messner, state secretary of revenue, has issued the following statement:

"Act No. 468, approved December 27, 1951, reenacted and further amended the Corporate Net Income Tax Act by extending it to cover income received or accrued during the calendar year 1953, or the fiscal year beginning in 1953, and providing for the 'accelerated' collection of a portion of the tax due for the calendar year 1953 or fiscal year beginning in 1953.

"In addition to paying the regular tax for 1952, corporations are required to file a 'tentative report' by April 30, 1953, for the tax year 1953 and pay tax at the rate either of 2 1/2% on net income of the preceding year reported or 10% of net income received or accrued during the first three (3) months of the calendar or fiscal year of 1953. For corporations not on a calendar year basis, the 'tentative report' is due within four (4) months after the close of the fiscal year ending in 1953.

"Normally, the net income figure under the first alternative would be the amount for the calendar year 1952 or for the fiscal year beginning in 1952. However, if the corporation had been granted an extension of time on the filing of its return for the calendar year 1952, or for the fiscal year beginning in 1952, then the net income figure shown in the 'tentative report' necessarily would be for the calendar year 1951 or fiscal year beginning in 1951. The law does not provide for an extension of time for filing the 'tentative reports.'

"These same provisions apply also to the Corporation Income Tax Law imposing a new 'property tax' as reenacted by Act No. 470, approved December 27, 1951.

"Forms for filing the 'tentative reports' have been mailed to the various corporations.

Honor John Calkins On His 90th Birthday

An interesting item in a recent issue of a St. Petersburg, Fla., paper tells of a birthday party given in honor of John R. Calkins, former well known Warren man on the occasion of his 90th birthday. The party was held at the home of the honoree's sister-in-law, Mrs. Laura Quick Simmons, who was assisted by Mr. Calkins' daughter, Mrs. A. E. Fish Wardens Will Patrol Watershed And Stream Areas

Harrisburg (P) — Beginning Feb. 1 state fish wardens will patrol watershed or stream districts instead of working on a county basis.

The new plan, designed to promote "travel economy," was disclosed yesterday by C. A. French, state fish commissioner.

He explained that the new system, establishing districts which may include an entire county or parts of bordering counties, will eliminate many miles of travel by a warden previously required to handle streams far from his base of operations.

Under the new system wardens will take care of the streams they live closest to. "In addition to the travel economy the field force will be better able to render valuable assistance to the commission's stream management program, provide better protection and more efficient field service," French added.

The change has been supported by the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs.

DOORS OPEN

Trinity Parish Meeting Has Program By Boy Choir and Interesting Talk by Bishop

New kitchen and dining room facilities in the parish house of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church were taxed to capacity for the first time last evening on the occasion of the parish tureen dinner served last evening at 6:15 o'clock under the supervision of Trinity Women.

Highlights of the program included the delectable meal were an interesting and instructive talk by the Rt. Rev. William Crittenden, bishop of the Erie diocese, a program of chorus numbers by the Warren Boy Choir, and dedication by the Bishop of a new American Flag presented the church by the Rockwell Bible Class, replacing one that had been in service since it was dedicated by the late Bishop John Chamberlain Ward.

In presenting the Boy Choir the rector, the Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge, introduced the director Byron Swanson, requesting that he furnish the congregation with a brief history of the organization. Mr. Swanson responded by expressing appreciation of himself and the boys not only for the invitation to sing before the group, but for the generosity of the congregation in permitting the choir to use parish house facilities for rehearsals three times a week. He reminded that the choir is now in its sixth season, explaining that it was organized for mutual enjoyment as well as to be of service to others. He praised the boys for their loyal cooperation, declaring that they are always anxious to rehearse, and that "they love to sing."

Following the brief talk the choir was heard in a group of chorus numbers that greatly pleased the large audience, many of whom were hearing them for the first time. Richard Pratt accompanied at the organ.

The Rev. Rutledge, in introducing the speaker reminded that it was the third "unofficial visit" the Bishop has made to the parish since he was consecrated in June, 1952. He spoke in praise of the family get-together as a means of grace, explaining that the new facilities in the kitchen will help to provide additional fellowship in the parish.

Bishop Crittenden at the outset assured those present that he was happy at what he had seen since arriving at the church, and then launched into a discourse regarding the educational work of the church and the parish, stressing the importance of the proper use of leisure as an important part of the scheme of life, along with collective organization and cooperative efforts. Most of his address stressed the important part the women must play in the success of parish work, outlining four important factors as: Planning, Program Participation and Proclamation. Each activity was dealt with separately and in complete detail, with helpful suggestions for the Trinity Women group.

Following his talk the Bishop with appropriate prayers and ritual dedicated the flag.

The dinner and program were in charge of the Trinity Women officers. Mrs. Palmer Davis president, assisted by Mrs. Glenn Werner and Mrs. Jack MacDonald.

Boston University and Springfield College are the only new foes on Brandeis University's football schedule for 1953.

Physical Education Dept. Has Plan To Interest Citizens

Under the direction of Miss Martha Sable, instructor of physical education for girls at Warren High School, the girls' physical education classes have undertaken two projects by which they hope parents and citizens of the town may obtain a clear picture of the value of the physical education classes.

Romaine Kondak, a senior, the speaker for the course on the school's regular weekly broadcast Tuesday, outlined the objectives of the course and the methods incorporated in the yearly program to obtain these objectives. She told of the history of physical education, bringing out its development away from its early beginning when, she stated, it was looked on as a class for keeping students busy and as a means of establishing discipline, and she emphasized that there is a greater need for an organized program in the present mechanical world.

The second project of the classes in this field of giving the public an understanding of the work will come sometime in March, when there will be a gymnastic exhibition in the Beaty Junior High School gymnasium by members of the junior high school and senior high school physical education classes. This exhibition will aim to show the community what the students are actually doing in the classes. The fundamentals of gymnastics will be displayed by the Beaty students with the high school girls performing advanced skills.

FEWER FOREST FIRES

Data released by the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture present a very favorable picture of the protection provided for the forests of Pennsylvania by the Division of Protection of the State Department of Forests and Waters. The State Planning Board said today. Comparisons with conditions of 1939 show that in that year $5,657 forest fires occurred on protected lands in the United States and that two years ago $6,573 fires occurred on such land, while in Pennsylvania, which had 4,768 forest fires on protected areas in 1939, there were only 910 reported fires in 1950. The forest areas burned off in Pennsylvania in 1950 was 36,776 acres as compared with 72,170 in 1939.

FURNITURE PROSPECTS

Jamestown, Sun: Furniture manufacturers, one of Jamestown's key industries, will have a prosperous year in 1953, according to the predictions of a top industry official who said Tuesday that sales will be as good or better in 1953 than last year. Employment in local furniture plants also will remain at a high level, according to his predictions. This outlook was given by George H. Dudley, president of the Jamestown Area Furniture Manufacturers Association. One of the primary reasons for the optimistic outlook, according to Dudley, is the fact that sales of most furniture have become more stabilized on a nation-wide level. This means local manufacturers can project plans further into the future since stable prices assure a definite profit-range. Several local furniture manufacturers are looking forward to a big increase in business during the first six months of 1953, compared with the same period in 1952. Dudley predicted sales for 1953 should be better than 1952 even if sales drop off during the second half of the year. The "shopping around" by buyers in 1953 probably will not be as intense as in 1952, and this is another indication of leveling price structures, Dudley said.

ELDERLY PEOPLE POSE PROBLEM

The State Planning Board, Department of Commerce, says one of the most interesting and inescapable problems facing the future of Pennsylvania and the United States as a whole, is shown by the age distribution of the State's population, recorded by the 1950 Census and recently made available.

Between 1940 and 1950, Pennsylvania's population gain was 597,882, a very substantial and satisfactory figure considering the fact that these population gains represent additions to our wealth of productive power. However, we must recognize that they also represent a demand for new facilities and services, such as hospitals and schools which must principally be paid for by today's working population.

The important question is—how Pennsylvania's increase of nearly 600,000 is distributed. The answer is given by the preliminary Census report on the age distribution of our population referred to above. As compared with 1940, Pennsylvania in 1950 had an increase of more than 300,000 under age five, and an increase of more than 95,000 between the ages of five and nine. This means, of course, that the elementary schools of this state will have, very shortly, several hundred thousands more pupils than they had ten years ago.

Turning from the youngest to the oldest groups in our population, we find that in 1950, as compared with 1940, there were nearly 82,000 more persons over 75, 120,000 more between 65 and 75, and 165,000 more between ages 55 and 65. In other words, there was an increase of 395,000 in the number under 10 years of age. There was also a considerable increase in the number between 25 and 55, but a loss of 497,000 in the age group between 10 and 25. That age group in our present population is so far below its proportion of 10 years ago because it represents the children born during a period of depression when the birth rate was lower than at any time in history of either the State or the Nation.

It requires no gift of prophecy to realize that, with the passage of the years, that group which is now, in 1952, between ages 12 and 27, will face serious problems in every community, and in the Nation as a whole.

There are today in Pennsylvania almost 500,000 fewer young people in this age group than there were 10 years ago, although our State's total population has increased by 600,000. But this age group, which is proportionately far below normal, must now supply the personnel for our Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force.

PRIMARY QUESTION IN KOREA

Some significant reminders are contained in the following editorial appearing under the heading "The Primary Question," in the current issue of "Korean Survey," published by "The Korean Pacific Press," Washington, D. C.:

As a new Administration prepares to take over in Washington, basic consideration will be given anew to what issues are of transcendent importance. Granted honest and intelligent administration, we all can trust our leadership a long way if we know the right problems are being faced.

In our view, the primary question confronting the incoming President is this—Is time on our side or on Russia's?

If the total power balance (military, psychological, economic) is shifting toward the United States, the outgoing administration has been correct in counseling patience and in striving to hold off a crisis as month after month of time is bought. If, however, time is on the side of the Soviet Union, the "be patient and wait" policy has already had tragic effects. Many believe that had Russia been confronted with an armed challenge by way of a drive to the Yalu River in the Spring of 1951, a third world war might have been averted. "Too little and too late" are limitations that proved costly in World War II. In an atomic age, the cost may be too high.

Time (since 1945) already has shifted 600 million people in Poland, Rumania, Hungary, Germany, Austria, China, etc. from our side to Russia's. Time has driven deep wedges in the democratic alliance. Time has deprived the free world of important markets and raw materials and has redoubled our economic burdens. Time has given the Kremlin a supply of atomic bombs—which it may use in a surprise attack, as we will not in such a manner use ours. Time, has multiplied our fears that another war might wreck civilization. Has time also increased the Communists' hope of victory? All these problems cry aloud for fresh consideration.

'Tis a Consummation Devoutly To Be Wish'd

Here And There

William McKinley, 25th president of the United States, was born 110 years ago today, January 29, 1843, at Niles, Ohio. McKinley attended school in Poland, O., and Allegheny College. He enlisted for the Civil War at the age of 18 and saw service at South Mountain, Antietam, Winchester and Cedar Creek. The state of Ohio honored him with the tallest monument at Antietam, where he had been a doughboy. He studied law in the Albany, N. Y., Law School, and opened an office at Canton in 1867, and campaigned for Grant and Hayes. From 1867 to 1890, excepting 1882, he served in the House of Representatives and led the fight for a high tariff to protect "infant industries," with reciprocal trade agreements. Through the McKinley bill enacted October 1, 1890. He was elected governor in 1891 and 1893. He received 182 ballots for president at the Republican convention that nominated Benjamin Harris in 1892. In 1896 he was elected president on a protective tariff, sound money (gold standard) platform over William Jennings Bryan, Democratic proponent of free silver.

McKinley was reluctant to intervene in Cuba on grounds of humanity, but the loss of the battleship Maine at Havana crystallized opinion. He demanded Spain's withdrawal from Cuba, Spain replied by declaring war. McKinley signed the American declaration March 23, 1898. In the 1900 campaign he defeated Bryan's anti-imperialist arguments with the prestige of prosperity, "the full dinner pail" and the vigorous campaigning of Theodore Roosevelt, Vice presidential nominee. McKinley was a Methodist, beloved for his conciliatory nature, but conservative (stand-pat) on business issues. He abhorred violence. The need to regulate the Philippines is believed to have inspired John Hay's Open Door Policy in Asia. On September 6, 1901, while welcoming citizens at the Pan-American exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., he was shot by Leon Czolgosz, an anarchist terrorist. He died September 14. His last words were: "It is God's way. His will, not ours, be done."

Administration Will Follow Pattern Set in Wilson Case

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The hassle over General Motors' ex-President Charles E. Wilson's appointment as Secretary of Defense is only the beginning.

The pattern set in the Wilson case is bound to be followed for every other important appointment in the Eisenhower administration. For it has been frequently said that this is to be a business administration, and this is the test case.

Some of the best lawyers in the country were apparently caught napping in not discovering the old law which prevents any U. S. official from doing government business with a company in which he has interests. The law was called to the attention of the Eisenhower administration by Democratic Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. But the Republicans did nothing to clear up the Wilson situation in the weeks between his appointment and inauguration day.

As a matter of fact, this law was not consistently enforced by the Democrats during the Truman administration. The other C. E. Wilson, of General Electric, was allowed to keep his stock interests in that company while serving as Defense Production Administrator, and K. T. Keller has for several years been coordinator of the guided missile production program for the Department of Defense, while still retaining his position as head of Chrysler Corporation.

The law applied in the Wilson case goes back to 1863. CONGRESS had real reasons for putting this law on the books in the first place. It arose out of Quartermaster Corps scandals in procurement for northern troops in the Civil War. The bond sale scandals in financing that war, and conscription exemptions.

W. E. Woodward in his "New American History" describes some of those scandals this way: "Fortunes were made. . . Profits were large, and anybody could sell the government worthless steamers, shoddy clothing, rotten ammunition, defective rifles and food that was hardly fit for pigs."

Conscription began in the North in 1863 and on the first draft 292,000 names were drawn. Says Woodward: "40,000 failed to respond. . . 164,000 were exempted. . . 52,000 bought exemptions for $300 apiece." The net result was 35,000 men bagged for the army.

On the financial scandals, the historian relates that a speculator could take $400 in gold, exchange that for $1000 in black market greenbacks, buy a $1000 bond with the greenbacks and get $60 a year interest in gold, or a 15 per cent profit on the original $400.

All these things led to the passage of the National Banking Act in 1863 and to the passage of the 1863 criminal code to prevent and punish frauds upon the government.

It is of course not to be inferred that Mr. Wilson would indulge in any of the practices of Civil War days which led to original passage of the bills to prevent frauds against the government. But it is necessary to keep in mind what Congress was trying to do in passing these laws, while considering a change in them now.

The question of how much influence C. E. Wilson, as Secretary of Defense, would have on war contracts is debatable. Different experts at the Pentagon give different opinions.

The Secretary of Defense doesn't sign any defense contracts. When General Marshall was Secretary of Defense, he left all that detail of production to his undersecretary, Robert A. Lovett.

And while actual defense contracts are made by Army, Navy and Air Force officers in the field, on a question like where to place a new tank arsenal or jet engine contract, the Secretary of Defense would have the deciding voice.

is God's way. His will, not ours, be done."

Fifty years ago today there was published in the "Daily Reflections" column of The Evening Mirror, the following paragraph which applies in this year of 1953, as it did back in 1903:

"One peculiarity of the coming month of February is that each day of the week occurs four times. This, says The New York Press, has happened 15 times in the last 132 years . . . namely, in 1778, 1789, 1795, 1801, 1807, 1818, 1829, 1835, 1846, 1857, 1863, 1874, 1885, 1891 and 1903. In the next fifty years it will occur five times . . . in 1914, 1925, 1931, 1942 and 1953!"

And here's another paragraph in the same column that will be read with interest by old-time sport lovers of the town: "The following young men from this place left today for Irvine to play basketball with a team from the Irvine High School: Samuel Ostergard, Peter Ostergard, Charles Fowler, Leo Gorman, Edward T. Anderson, Harry Anderson, of the University of Buffalo team, will accompany them as the official. This is a new team in the field, but they have been practicing faithfully and some good reports are expected to be heard from them in the near future."

Terse, Tart and Timely: Until reminded by one of the good Methodist members that February 18 would be Ash Wednesday, the program committee of the Kiwanis club had a "ladies' night" event tentatively set for that date—and that, Kiwanians, is the reason you will not be in on a party until March. . . Which reminds us Joe Passaro, one of the guidance instructors and coaches at the High School, has an appointment to lecture before the Kiwanians on February 11th.

The Journal announces that only $3,694 remains to be paid before the Corry Memorial Hospital is free of the deficit incurred in two fund campaigns which were carried out to assure its construction. . . It was recalled again last evening on the occasion of his third "unofficial" visit to Trinity Parish, that the Rt. Rev. William Crittenden, bishop of the Erie Episcopal diocese, once upon a time resided in Warren when he was employed by the Bell Telephone Company. . . Tonight, from seven to eight, the Mothers of Warren County will be on the March in the fight against infantile paralysis; have your porch light on, and be ready to make your contribution toward the battle against polio! . . . Following a policy adopted by dealers in radio and television sets it will cost you $5 minimum to try out a TV in your home or business place!

The light of a candle 40,000 miles away could be picked up by the Palomar telescope, near San Diego, Calif.

Harrison, Ark.—One of the country's best-loved "girl" reporters who has hit the half century mark in the newspaper business is Miss Lona James who has traveled outside her native Boone County in Northwest Arkansas only twice in her 72 years.

Miss Lona dictates, from memory, about six columns of type every week, according to J. E. Dunlap, editor and publisher of the weekly Boone County Headlight.

LONA JAMES ... Collects her news by telephone

"Locals, by Miss Lona James" are filled with brief items about the trips, parties, illnesses and events in the lives of the some 6,000 persons who live in this county seat in the Ozark Mountains.

Dunlap says Miss Lona knows more than 800 telephone numbers which she calls during two days a week, dictating her stories twice daily.

She can make no notes, nor can she "cover" any stories—because of her impaired vision. She can barely distinguish between night and day.

"I can see the sky, the sun and the moon," Miss Lona says, "but I can't see the pitfall."

She feels her way carefully down sidewalks, switching a worn homemade cane for obstructions. She says her sight started falling about 10 years ago. To Miss Lona, her work is one of the major enjoyments of her existence. Says she:

"I've led a sort of isolated life. I didn't make friends easily, some way or other, but I enjoyed seeing people and talking to them and knowing what was going on. I didn't start out to be a reporter, but I believe it fits my nature better than anything else."

Miss Lona's life and her newspaper career are interwoven with the history of Harrison.

She was born in 1880, when the town was only 10 years old. Miss Lona says it still was smarting from the war between the States, plagued by bushwhackers, caught in the midst of family feuds and resenting outside intrusion.

When she was graduated from high school, Miss Lona wanted to be a teacher but because of a dispute between her forefathers and others in the town, she said, she was unable to get a school.

She and her mother raised and sold flowers until 1903 when she was offered a job with the Boone Banner, a now-defunct weekly newspaper, as a hand type setter. "I was a tolerable fast hand," she remembers, "and in my spare time I started getting locals."

Two years later she started work on the Harrison Daily Times and eventually was promoted to a full time reporter.

She covered the shooting of Henry Starr, an Oklahoma badman killed while trying to rob a Harrison bank, while working on the Times.

Miss Lona said the Claremore, Okla. outlaw "herded the cashier and all the people in the bank into a vault."

"He didn't see the bank president, W. G. Meyers, who had a gun and simply dropped Mr. Starr."

"They called me at home from the paper and I went to the jail and interviewed him before he died."

"He told me he wasn't related to Belle Starr (another Western bandit) and that he got started on his career when he was sent to the pen as a young boy for a crime he didn't commit."

Miss Lona doesn't think Starr was a "bad man—he had a bad reputation, but they said he wouldn't kill unless he had to and I understand that on the way to rob the bank he helped a woman fix her car."

The elderly reporter said several years later she was fired from the Times—again because of a family dispute—and started working for the newly-organized Boone County Headlight.

In England, every woman prisoner serving more than six months has a complete outfit of clothes—dresses, aprons, and underclothes—made to her measure.

The longest winning streak in San Jose State football history was a string of 20 compiled during the 1939 and 1940 seasons.

Playing Second Fiddle Hurts a Husband's Ego

WRITES a wife: "My husband seems to actually resent the fact that I try hard to be a good mother. 'He frequently makes such cracks as 'Nothing is too much trouble for you if it is something the kids want,' or 'You jump every time one of the kids wants something.' What is the matter with him, anyway?'"

Probably nothing that couldn't be cured by making him feel he is at least as important to you as the children.

No husband likes to feel that the children are more important than he is or that their demands are put ahead of his.

So watch your step from now on to make sure that you put your husband's wishes ahead of your children's. After all, no father of a family should be made to take a back seat for his children.

LET CHILDREN GO TO HIM

ANOTHER thing you could do is to encourage the children to turn to their father part of the time, instead of always turning to you. Say now and then: "You'd better ask your father to do that. He's better at it than I am," and turn to him for help in answering some of their questions.

There are all kinds of ways in which a wise mother can share the children with her husband instead of monopolizing them.

Start thinking along these lines instead of feeling hurt because your husband doesn't appreciate what a good mother you are.

After all, he'll get more personal satisfaction out of being a good father than in acknowledging that you are a good mother.

And he'll certainly be happier living with a good wife than with a good mother for his children. Your aim should be to be both.

Featured as guest speaker will be Dr. C. H. Zahniser, general missionary field secretary for the Free Methodist denomination, and a very cordial invitation is extended to all interested.

Dr. Zahniser has a great message gleaned in his travels to many foreign and home mission fields. En route home, he visited Cairo, Palestine, Athens and Rome. He will have with him pictures of many places and things of interest taken in these far-off lands.

Following dinner, for which Mrs. Louise Hooven of Cory was an honored guest, she was remembered with gifts from the group. I must have a new Swansdown suit

For 1953... is going to be my best year (There comes a time in a girl's life when she realizes it's time to dress-up and live). No telling how many places he'll take me... he likes to show me off to his friends as the best-dressed girl in town — does a lot for his ego too. That's why a Swansdown suit is a must in my 1953 spring wardrobe.

MY BOSS? HE'S DIVINE. He likes ensembles that can go from the office to theatre without looking over-dressed. That's why he likes this Swansdown costume. It's Miron's boucle jacket, with jersey blouse and worsted skirt beautifully dyed to match. Sizes 10 to 18.

Miron is a plaid boucle, with a solid color skirt. Over it, I'm wearing a Matching topper in the newer, shorter length. Miron created the pure wool fabric. Swansdown tailored it smartly in sizes 10 to 20.

I like solid colors with a carved, fitted look. My suit is a pure Miron worsted, with a versatile silk scarf that I can wear several ways. Sizes 10 to 20.

I like tweedy effects, combined with blending colors. This two-tone Miron boucle has a crisp worsted skirt. The jacket is full and easy, yet nipped in. The skirt, a slim stem. Sizes 8 to 18.

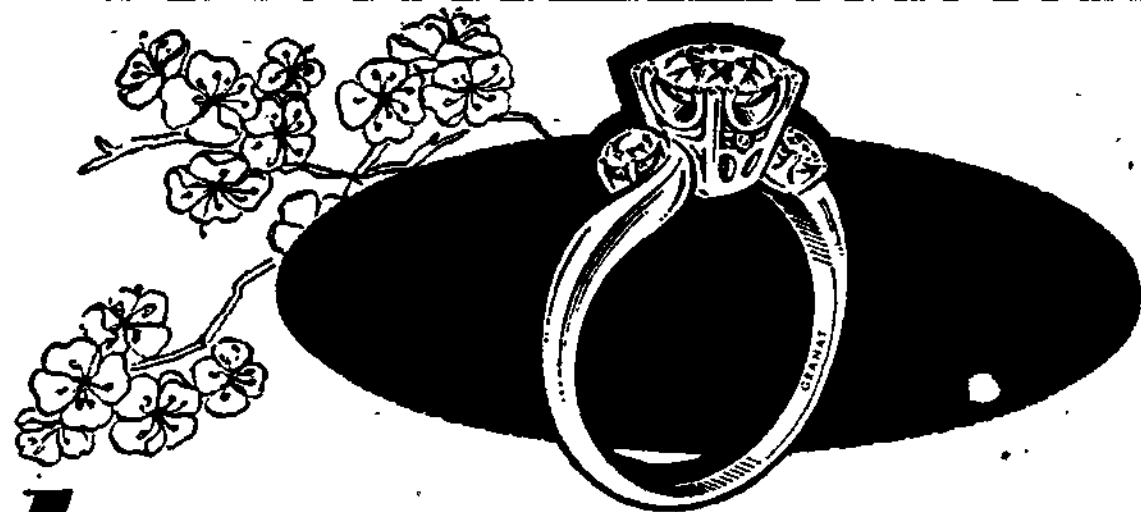

I'm a busy career girl, and I bought this in just fifteen minutes. When you want to save time and save money you just can't go wrong with Swansdown. Imagine... a pure worsted Flancon by Julliard, and it's dressy enough to go right from the office to dinner and theatre. Sizes 8 to 18.

Letters to the Editor

MEMORIES OF YESTERDAY

Dreamy wonderlust thoughts of the long ago, when we were young, which occasionally floats through one's mind, brings back sweet and fragrant memories, that linger on, to accompany us down through the valley of our dreams. When I was a young man in my late teens, I had a friend about my age, who was born and raised on an adjoining farm where I lived in the state of Indiana. It was half a mile to the four corners where was located several homes and a small general store in which the Post Office was located. This place was known as Dixon Station and was serviced by the P. R. R. which stopped for passengers on flag. On rainy days and often in the evenings, this was a popular gathering place for farmers and the younger generation which included my occasional visit. When the weather was inclement, a pot belied heating stove fired with coal, often kept us at its distance, seated on cracker barrels or soap boxes. With the atmosphere filled with tobacco smoke, the various stories, yarns, and farm gossip, entertained the crowd. This was before the rural telephone or the advent of the automobile. Later my friend Thomas completed his education at college, after which he opened an office and engaged in the practice of law.

On one of my visits with him I recall how the trend of his conversation took us back to our boyhood days, during which with a smiling countenance he mentioned spelling bees at the little red school house, coasting down the hill in a home made sled, square dances at the well-to-do farmer homes, bob-sled riding parties to an occasional social, hunting quail out on the prairie, and taffy pulling parties accompanied by music and singing.

Continuing he said, these and many more clinging features will always provide me with pleasant memories of my youth.

In conjunction with these preceding lines in this after-thought, Beautiful and interesting are some of the spirit inspiring stories written by past Masters of the pen, that nearly sweep you off your feet, while carrying you back to those years and charming days so dear and highly prized in our memory.

Then in sober reflection which is indeed deploring, one sincerely regrets the passing of the years, after which arriving amidst the present, our sober thinking vanishes through the realization of this beautiful and wonderful world that we are a part of.

Beef Takes Consumer Food News Spotlight as Retail Price of Cuts Continue Drop

By The Associated Press

Beef took the consumer food news spotlight this week as retail prices of steaks, roasts and other cuts declined as much as 10 cents a pound in widespread areas.

Some markets also featured specials in fryer and broiler chickens, leg or shoulder of lamb, picnic hams and fresh pork butts. But prices of meats other than beef were generally irregular.

Eggs were unchanged to a few cents a dozen lower. A long list of fresh vegetables edged a little lower as increased shipments followed improved crop weather. Naval oranges, tangerines, pears and fresh strawberries were reduced in most places, too.

The decline in beef prices was a continuation of a trend which has been going on for several weeks now under pressure of abundant supplies. Livestock prices recently dipped to the lowest levels in years. Many more cattle are being fattened on Midwestern feed lots than at this time last year. Storage stocks are heavier. Herd-building has increased the number of cattle to an estimated 350 per 1,000 of our human population now as against 260 cattle per 1,000 persons a decade ago.

The season's first asparagus from California reached Eastern markets by train and plane this Martin Mikrut, who has been a patient in the Erie Veterans Hospital since he was injured in a car accident in October, 1951, was a weekend guest of his brother, Steven Mikrut and family. He has improved enough to be employed in Erie, beginning this week.

Forty-eight persons went by bus to Jamestown Saturday evening to hear Roger Torrey Peterson lecture and show slides on "Bird Migration." Among those attending was Mrs. Donald Abbott, who was a member of Mr. Peterson's class at Jamestown High School. Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Grant attended the testimonial dinner for Mr. Peterson at the Hotel Jamestown preceding the lecture, guests of Dr. and Mrs. Rappole.

PROMISE OF DELIGHT

By Mary Howard

Chapter 36

"WELL, you'd be in a mess if I wasn't," said Anthea. "You'd better get the car out, and drive yourself home. I'll go with Mother and Dad."

"Very well."

"We'll see you for dinner then?" said Gregory.

"Thank you, signor, that will be charming."

"How about your son?" said Marian. "Is he home yet?"

Mario glanced unhappily at Anthea's face, and before he could open his mouth to speak, Anthea said quietly, "No, Joe decided to stay on for a day or so. The weather was so beautiful."

"So?" thought Marian. "It's gone wrong. I know that tight, giving-nothing-away expression. I wore it myself all my life—until now. But Anthea isn't going to, not if I can help it."

"The wound hurts?" said Marian quietly. "You're terrified when his name is mentioned, because even that is salt in it. What happened?"

"Oh, Mummy," said Anthea, helplessly. "Let me talk later. I don't want to cry all over you and Daddy on the way home."

"All right, but keep your sense of proportion," said Marian crisply.

Anthea gave her a little grateful glance as they got into the car. She could take this sort of sympathy, unsentimental, bracing, but very understanding.

Anthea easily fell into the old routine at home. It was easier than she had imagined. And there was a lot to do—a mound of correspondence for Mario, not to mention driving to and fro to the studios with him, to see the scenes they had taken in the south of France in the projection room. Also, there was plenty to do at home. Someone had to tidy round after Mario at his own place, and as he took his meals with the Graingers there was always extra work. And Mario had no mean appetite. Marian made Anthea laugh one day by saying that she was beginning to have a lot of sympathy for Bianca, because cooking for Mario was like cooking for a perpetual party.

One night, as she went slowly up the path, and as she stood on the porch, she felt a tentative pull at her skirt. She shrank back with a little cry of fear, staring down into the darkness. A familiar voice came out of the blackness, a voice charged with tears, hoarse with misery. "Do not be afraid, signorina, it is only me. Please, signorina . . . please listen to me . . ."

"Bianca!" Anthea stood still, then opened the door. "All right, I suppose you'd better come in."

"Grazie, signorina . . . you are very good," Bianca followed her into the kitchen. Anthea switched the lights on and looked at her visitor. She looked bedraggled and tired and old. Her sallow cheeks were tear-stained, and there were great shadows round her eyes.

"How on earth did you get here?" she asked.

"I got a plane. Mr. Joe put me on train for Italy, but I got off, and come-a here. All my money nearly, I spend on the airplane fare. I have to come and talk to you. I have no home, no people in Italy. Where my padrone is, there is my home. If I tell you all the truth, perhaps you will speak to him, and ask him to forgive me."

"Mr. Joe put you on the train for Italy?" said Anthea. "Where was Gina?"

"He left her, up in the mountains, and came back. Too late—you had gone."

"You're tired," said Anthea calmly, though her heart began to race. "And hungry. I'll get you something . . . to the cupboard and took out the percolator, but Bianca was at her side. No, no, you are not to wait on me. Sit down. I get it."

"You sit down and tell me what you came to tell me," Anthea's pretty face was very grave. "Let there be no more lies, Bianca."

This has to be the truth. If you lie to me, I will not speak to Mario."

"Look, look," said Bianca, almost stuttering in her anxiety. "Gina she was so much in love with Joe, and he did not look at her, so I say to her, maybe you pretend to be in trouble, and then Joe will be nice to you."

"And where does Larry Donati come in?"

Bianca's eyes shifted, then came back, and she said, "He was one of Gina's men, so she tell me. Dio mio, had I known how she lived back in the States! I thinking all the time she was with the good sisters. Larry is a good boy, gambler, small time . . . very fond of my Gina. He is hard up, so she says she will give him money to help. So he writes the letters, threatening to kill her, so that Joe must always be near to guard her. Then, the last day, when you are with Mario in the sea, Gina telephones, and he comes and makes big scene . . . much shouting . . . shoots his gun . . ."

"I heard a shot," said Anthea, "I thought someone was shooting larks on the headland."

"It was Larry. He goes off just when Joe came, and Gina says she will not stay, and he must take her somewhere safe. Joe left you a letter. Here . . . She held out Joe's letter. She had taken it out of the rubbish, and painstakingly stuck it together upon a sheet of newspaper. Anthea took it and read it, and her eyes shone with sudden tears. The door opened, and Marian came in in her long blue gown, two white plaits over her shoulders. Her eyebrows went up as she saw Bianca, and then she saw Anthea's face.

"You see Gina is very pretty," explained Bianca. "We thought when Joe is alone with her, he will forget everything."

"And didn't he?" asked Marian.

"No," Bianca's eyes were blank with astonishment as she thought of it. "No. He walked right out on her!"

Harrisburg (AP)—The House reshuffled its committee chairmanships wholesale and reduced memberships of all committees by about one-third.

Fifteen new chairmen were named and the number of standing committees was reduced from 32 to 31.

A new committee, to be known as Cities and Counties, First, Second and Third Class A, was formed out of what had been a Committee for Cities and Counties First Class and Cities and Counties Second Class.

The consolidated unit, headed by Rep. Edwin C. Ewing (R.-Allegheny), will now handle legislation dealing with Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Scranton and Allegheny County.

Other new committee chairmen, all Republicans, are: Reps. W. H. McCullough (Lawrence), Agriculture; John J. Mikula (Luzerne), Third Class Cities; Daniel E. Erb (Blair), Counties; W. Stuart Helm (Armstrong), Education; Leroy A. Waldner (Berks), Elections and Apportionment; Reginald P. Stimmler (Lehigh), Fisheries; Edwin W. Tompkins (Cameron), Judiciary.

Edward Young (Mercer), Labor Relations; T. Luke Toomey (Perry), Law and Order; Harry W. Price, Jr. (Mifflin), Liquor Control; Elaine C. Hocker (Dauphin), Military Affairs; M. Mack Guthrie (Armstrong), Motor Vehicles; Raymond C. Kratz (Montgomery), Municipal Corporations; Allen M. Gibson (Warren), Public Utilities.

Hold-over chairmen, all Republicans, are: Reps. Ray W. Greenwood (Wyoming), Aeronautics; Norman Wood (Lancaster), Appropriations; George W. Cooper (Allegheny), Banking and Building and Loan Associations; Walter Baumunk (Sullivan), Boroughs; George A. Goodling (York), Game and Forestry; Baker Royer (Lancaster), Highways.

G. Edgar Kline (Schuylkill), Insurance; Earl E. Hewitt, Sr. (Indiana), Mines; Harold E. Plack (Luzerne), Professional Licensure; Preston A. Frost (Centre), Public Health and Sanitation; Amos Leisley (Chester), Railroads; Ivan C. Watkins (Schuylkill), State Government; Charles R. Reagan (Union), Townships; Wrayburn B. Hall (Potter), Ways and Means; John R. Haudenshield (Allegheny), Welfare; and Wilmer W. Waterhouse (Erie), Workmen's Compensation.

REPORTS TO LEISURE—Sgt. Leon C. Brown, USMC, has reported to Camp Lejeune, N. C., for further duty after enjoying a 30-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Brown, Chandler Valley. He arrived home December 24th, after serving 12 months in Korea. His brother, Cpl. Harland A. Brown, entered service in February, 1951, served 12 months with the Army in Germany, and arrived home last week after receiving his honorable discharge.

Pennsy Net Income Shows An Increase

Philadelphia (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad reported net income of $36,981,364 for 1952, an increase of $10,283,647 over the total for the previous year. The railroad said this was equal to $2.81 per share of common stock, compared to $2.03 in 1951, and $2.92 in 1950.

President Walter S. Franklin noted that freight revenues for the year were $767,358,561, a decrease of $16,276,050 from the 1951 totals, but that this was more than offset by a decline of $27,059,918 in railway operating expenses.

The drop in freight revenue, Franklin said, was due almost entirely to the steel strike of last fall and several interruptions in coal production. On the other hand, Franklin told a news conference the railroad was able to reduce operating expenses by cutting back on its equipment maintenance and through the greater efficiencies from the program of equipment improvement and modernization that is now nearing completion.

NO SABOTAGE FOUND IN 'RUNAWAY' TRAIN

Washington (AP)—William J. Patterson, an Interstate Commerce Commissioner, said today there has been no evidence of sabotage in the wreck of Washington's runaway train.

Patterson told reporters nothing has been presented at a commission hearing to indicate that someone tampered with an air valve, leaving the speeding express train almost without brakes.

There had been reports, all unofficial, that sabotage was suspected. The FBI was called in to investigate. But Patterson said he has no plans to hear from the FBI at this inquiry into the cause of the wreck.

Article Points Out Many Advantages Offered Youths Enlisting in the Naval Reserve

The Universal Military Training and Service Act of June, 1962, provides that every man on reaching the age of 18 and one-half years has an obligation to serve in a branch of the military forces for a period of eight years, composed of active and inactive duty. At the end of the active duty period is 10 years.

A man can fulfill his eight-year obligation without seriously interfering with his normal preparation for civilian life, provided he plans his military life instead of letting others do it for him.

For example, consider two 17-year-old boys. One boy enlists in the Naval Reserve and the other waits for induction. At the age of 18 and one-half and provided they have finished high school either could go on active duty for a period of two years. The Naval reservist can earn approximately 20 to 25 per cent more during his two years than the inductee for the same time. The inductee will have six years of obligated service remaining and the Naval Reservist only four and one-half. By getting in on the ground floor the Naval Reservist advances in the rating of his choice and thus earns more money.

At the present time the Navy is making no calls upon Selective Service, depending entirely upon voluntary enlistments in the Regular Navy and the Naval Reserve.

The Organized Naval Reserve is a training component of the Navy designed to train young men of the Naval Reserve in their home town, so that when the time comes for them to serve on active duty in the greatest Navy in the World, they will at least be semi-skilled men. By attending weekly meetings, a young man can acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to advance in rate he selects.

The type of instruction pursued is dependent upon the desires of the individual and the needs of the Service. Any one of the following seven ratings can be chosen in the Jamestown, N. Y., USNR Surface Division: quartermaster, radio, radar, electronics, machinist mate, metalsmith, and damage control. Classroom instruction is presented in periods of two 50-minute classes, taught by competent instructors.

The Organized Naval Reserve

offers one day's pay for each two and one-half hour drill attended. This means that a young man when first enlisting can be paid more than $1.00 per hour for attending a training program. Few training schools offer a trainee pay for attending classes. Each new recruit receives $2.60 per drill attended. Checks are mailed to the recruit's home address by the Disbursing Officer, Third Naval District, New York, quarterly.

Members of the Organized Naval Reserve are required to spend two weeks each year on training duty with full pay. The time that this training will be taken is left up to the individual, so that each man can fit this training into his school or employment schedule. Training cruises are made to Bermuda, Havana, Puerto Rico, Jamaica, Miami and many more.

In addition to the above mentioned benefits a Naval Reservist receives a full issue of Navy Uniforms, generous retirement benefits, opportunities for advancement, officer commissions, appointments to the Naval Academy, NROTC, and the Reserve Officer Candidate School.

A special invitation is extended to boys over 17 years of age, and to their parents and friends, to visit the Naval Reserve Training Center, 301 Hazeltine Avenue, Jamestown, N. Y., to observe the opportunities the United States Navy has made possible for the young men and women in this area.

LUDLOW

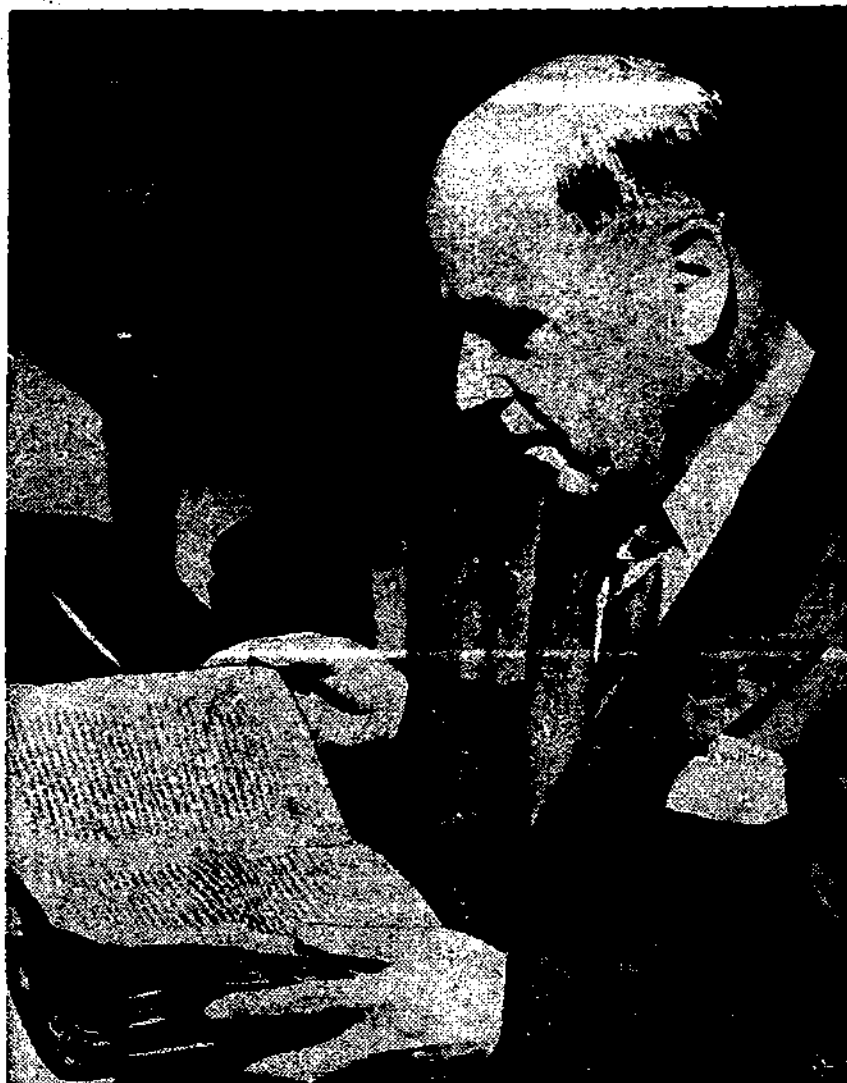

Kenneth Larson was honored guest at a television party and supper given for him in celebration of his 11th birthday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Larson, at the family home Saturday. Guests were Robert Misulich, Richard Carlson, Ronald Johnson, John Cox, Carol and Patricia Ralston, John and George Kulka and Everett Larson. He was given many interesting gifts.

Mrs. Andrew Gregg, medical patient at Kane Community Hospital, remains in about the same condition.

Captain Lynn Banks, patient at the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C., underwent surgery Wednesday.

Tillie Olson, who has been ill for some time, is expected to return to her home in Ludlow this week.

ANCIENT COPY OF NEW TESTAMENT—Norman Malek of Richmond, Va., above, examines an ancient copy of the New Testament, believed to have been written between 380 and 420 A. The valuable document will then be displayed at a nationally known university.

W P L REPORTING

Among the favorite games of librarians is that of dreaming up new kinds of booklists. There is something less than stimulating about lists headed "Dog Stories," "Mystery Stories," "Westerns," "Nature Tales," etc., unless the reader is actually interested in the subject himself. So librarians, when they have time, try to find other groupings for books that will arouse the reader's curiosity for a change, instead of keeping him in the same reading groove.

For this reason, this librarian is particularly happy to find that today, January 29th, is the birthday anniversary for a number of well known individuals who certainly represent a great variety of interests. Let's make a list today of books that represent these people who were born on January 29th.

Emanuel Swedenborg, born Jan. 29, 1688, has been called "Sweden's greatest son." He was a pioneer of modern science and is better known, perhaps for his mysticism and philosophy. A quick dip into one of his books, "Heaven and Hell," reveals an astonishing mixture of rather arrogant assumptions and humble piety. Certainly, no modern Christian would quarrel with Swedenborg's statement that "Heavenly love consists in a man's loving good, sincerity, and justice, for their own sakes, and from such love, in doing them."

On January 29, 1761, Albert Gallatin was born in Switzerland. He later became a great American statesman and public financier, and was Jefferson's secretary of the Treasury from 1801 to 1813. Gallatin was active in the Pennsylvania legislature before going to the United States Senate. A biography of Albert Gallatin, by John Stevens, gives an interesting picture of this man and the contemporary scene.

William McKinley, 25th President of the United States, was born on January 29, 1843. The two-volume biography by Charles Olcott relates in absorbing detail the public and private life of this man whose life was ended by an assassin's bullet in Buffalo in 1901.

Romain Rolland's birthday is today. The French novelist was born in 1866 and he is known for his ten volumes on the fictional life of "Jean Christophe," based on the life of Beethoven. Each volume is a complete novel in itself and they represent modern European literature at its best. Rolland does not evade the occasional unhappy circumstances of life; but, also, he does not become obsessed with the futility of living as do Camus, Mauriac, Sartre.

January 29th produced John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in 1874. Son of the famous dispenser of dollars, young John is best known for the restoration of Williamsburg. The public library has several volumes on the architecture, photographs and history of Williamsburg.

Finally, January 29th is the birthday of one of America's great liberators and crusaders. Thomas Paine was born on this date in 1737 and he was the author of the now famous "Rights of Man" and "Common Sense." He wrote a series of pamphlets called "The Crisis," which so impressed Washington that he ordered it to be read to the Revolutionary troops. In December 1776, a few hundred ragged patriots and their weary commander who had yet to win a battle heard for the first time the words: "These are the times that try men's souls. . . Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly. I have a little superstition in me as any man living, but my secret opinion has ever been and still is, that God Almighty will not give up a people to military destruction or leave them unsupported to perish, who have so earnestly and so repeatedly sought to avoid the calamities of war, by every decent method which wisdom could invent. Neither have I so much of the infidel in me as to suppose that He has relinquished the government of the world, and has given us up to the care of devils. . . . These words still make comfort-

It's an Adventurous Industry!" Says Gum Expert Who Has Been Professionally Chewing Away at His Job for 22 Years

By HAL BOYLE
New York (AP)—There are perhaps a dozen people in the world to earn a living by chewing gum. These elite figures of the 175 billion-dollar-a-year chewing gum industry must develop nearly as acute a taste sense as professional wine sippers or tea tasters. Douglas L. Brown, a lean-jawed man of 44, has been dutifully chewing gum some eight hours a day for the past 22 years. He is now quality control director at Adams Gum Co., one of the big three in the field.

Brown estimates he now can tell a difference—chiefly by their chewing characteristics—between 20 types of gum from a dozen countries. And do it blindfolded, too.

Chewing gum is regarded by most people as a simple, standardized, almost changeless product. Brown says it isn't that way at all—it's an adventurous industry that moves with the times.

"The trend right now is toward a firmer, more resilient gum, with a stronger flavor," said Brown. "This isn't because people's jaws are getting stronger. Kids raised on bubble gum are just growing up—and they are used to a tougher chew."

Considerable scientific research goes into the creation of any new gum.

"It took us ten years of work to perfect chlorophyll gum," said

CLOTHES CONSULTANT OFFERS SECRETS

Almost no one can step into a dress or suit and have it fit well without alteration. Correctly fitted, a dress minimizes or conceals figure faults and never makes the wearer look poured in. Girl (far left) illustrates one fitting fault. She very mistakenly is directing the fitter to make the dress almost skin-tight. This will make her look heavier instead of slender. She is having the dressman sleeves reduced—another error. To change one aspect of the design is to spoil the total effect. In next picture she is only having the hem taken up.

Older woman (far right) shows what great chic she can have by making the most of the sophisticated charm that goes with her age. After experimenting with many of the new hat styles and looking at them from all angles, she chooses a head-bugging model of red feathers that flatters her dashing white hair. In other picture, she shows you how defeated and matronly she can look by buying the same style she has worn for years, without a glance at the smart hats behind her. At every stage of life, a woman must reconsider styles.

Ludlow Boy Scouts Prepare to Attend National Jamboree

Ludlow—Frederick Johnson, Michael Swanson and Kiester Connelly are the happy Boy Scouts preparing to attend the National Jamboree which will be held in 21-day trip. The boys feel fortunate, also, in that their Troop 50 leader, Lester McArthur, will accompany the entire Warren delegation as an assistant leader. The group will travel pullman first class, the scheduled trip taking in some of the most interesting spots en route, such as the Grand Canyon and the Garden of the Gods at Colorado Springs. Tickets are still available for the Harmony Jamboree, Scout benefit which will be given in Sheffield Saturday night.

Hamilton township school pupils were invited by Ludlow parents to view the inauguration ceremonies on television sets in private homes, the youngsters carrying their lunches and thoroughly enjoying the historic occasion.

Seventh grade pupils are selling magazine subscriptions throughout town for the benefit of the School Safety Patrol.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Carlson entertained members of Vasa lodge at their home Saturday evening, with a short business session conducted by the president, Albin Johnson, after which a social hour and refreshments were enjoyed.

Gust Winkler was removed to his home over the weekend, after having been a medical patient at Warren General Hospital for two weeks.

Brown. "I chewed close to 2,500 sample pieces before we put it on the market."

Brown's teeth are still in fine shape after a five-ton chewing career he thinks it helped them, but he rather dreads the thought of ever losing them.

"False teeth would add to my problem considerably," he admitted.

He likes his job and says his wife likes it even better.

"I chew so much gum during the day," he said, "that my jaws are too tired for me to want to start any family arguments."

Continental "Look" Seen as Automotive Firms Face Step-up

By SAM DAWSON
New York (AP)—The continental look has been turning into American traffic lanes every time the light changed in recent years. Imports of foreign-made automobiles have been growing steadily as dollar-hungry Europeans pushed sales in this country.

Now some U. S. car makers are out to give the foreign car some competition in their own specialty—that long, low, and ever-lower wind-swept look.

New models displayed around the country in recent weeks by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler revealed the stepped-up trend to the car that seems to hug the road with swept-back lines.

Nash hired Pinin Farina, custom body designer of Turin, Italy, to style its 1953 models.

And today Studebaker goes much farther than the rest and brings out the lowest car ever made by an American firm.

This switch to the continental look comes as auto makers prepare for their greatest postwar competitive tests.

Foreign makes may offer little competition if viewed percentage-wise to the hordes of American cars on the highways. Trade sources estimate that perhaps 100,000 foreign-made cars are now on U. S. highways—a ration of slightly less than one foreign car for each 500 American-made.

But the numbers of continental styled cars have been growing fast. At the end of the war, during the car shortage here, British cars were snapped up by American buyers.

During the steep climb of inflation after the outbreak of the Korean War, part of the American demand for small British cars was attributed by dealers to the saving in gas consumption and other costs.

But in recent months there has been a steady rise in interest in expensive European makes with distinctive styling.

Department of Commerce figures show that in 1950 more than 6,000 British, French and Italian cars entered the United States. In 1951 almost 21,000 of them were imported. Last year the number was well over 25,000.

Harold S. Vance, board chairman and president of Studebaker says it was because of this growing trend that he called on American designer Raymond Loewy to put the Continental look into the 1953 Studebaker models on display today.

Loewy has turned out the lowest American make to date—one model being only 57 inches high. The bodies also have some of the backward slanting lines of European cars.

The American versions of the continental look are still easily distinguished from the European cars. The American makes are not hansom cars—they retain all the room inside they ever had, and maybe more.

But as the 1953 American models begin to appear in volume on the highways, the traffic jams are going to take on a new look.

If Greenland's ice cap were suddenly to melt, it would cause the oceans to overflow their present shores.

VETERANS' INFORMATION

Questions and Answers for Korean Vets

Q—I have a chance to get an Atomic Energy Commission fellowship at a university. Would I also be eligible for monthly education allowances under the Korean GI Bill?

A—No. The law prohibits VA from paying the allowances to veterans whose education is paid for completely by the U. S. Government. Your AEC fellowship would come under this category.

Q—I'm a World War II veteran and I've just finished training as an accountant under the old GI Bill. Now I'd like to take CPA coaching course, since I have some GI entitlement remaining. Could I do it?

A—No. VA's post-cut-off-date regulations allow you to take advanced training only when it's a normal progression from your basic course. Review or coaching courses—such as the CPA coaching course—do not represent an advancement to a higher level of knowledge, and therefore may not be taken after you've completed your basic course.

Q—I'm the widow of a World War I veteran and I'm figuring my annual income to see whether I qualify for a VA death pension. From time to time during the year, my relatives have given me gifts of money. Are they counted as income?

A—Yes. Gifts must be included in computing your income for pension purposes.

Q—I got a GI home loan when the top guaranty was $4,000. I understand it has been raised to $7,500. Am I entitled to another loan which would be guaranteed for the difference?

A—Yes. You would be entitled to another GI home loan which could be guaranteed for $3,500—the difference between the old and new top guaranties.

Ease Near Barnes Has Bad Tank Fire; Spectacular Crash

Barnes—The lease in the lower end of town, owned by Clyde Neely Kane, experienced a bad tank fire Friday. With the cooperation of the local fire warden, the use of his equipment and the help of neighbors, the fire was extinguished without much loss of oil property. This is the second time that such a fire has occurred at this lease, both having caught about the same manner.

Early Friday morning a truck owned by the Moyer Construction Co., Altoona, transporting about ten tons of steel beams and other heavy building materials to Warren, left the road shortly after it had crossed the bridge at East Branch and followed the old T. V. railroad grade for some distance until it struck a tree and upset as it turned into the driveway at the residence of Mrs. Beatrice Miller. It was quite a spectacular sight and fortunately the driver was not hurt. Within a few hours, it was reloaded and towed to Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jeffords are the latest Barnes residents to have television installed in their home, and so far, report having had very good reception.

Important Consolidation To Save State $50,000 a Year Is Chesterman Committee Plan

Harriburg (E)—The Chesterman committee has proposed consolidation of the State Mines Department into the Department of Labor and Industry to save a $50,000 a year in administrative costs.

It reserved judgment on a sub-committee recommendation to scuttle the half million dollar mine sealing program.

In a third action, the committee recommended regulatory legislation for the first time for oil and gas well drilling.

The committee, headed by Francis J. Chesterman, Philadelphia, was created by Gov. John S. Pine to study possible economies in state government.

The group said the Mines Department, with 123 employees, is "too small as an administrative unit and too restricted in scope" to warrant status as a separate department.

Under the recommended consolidation, a division of mines would be created in the Labor and Industry Department.

The committee did not elaborate on its suggestion for the regulation of oil and gas well drilling except to say the mines division should have responsibility for enforcement.

HINT TO MOTORISTS

If an automobile motor becomes overheated causing the water in the cooling system to boil, the radiator cap should not be removed until the heat has subsided. Many motorists have been badly scalded in this manner.

The fact that the festival of St. Valentine has been linked with lovers is believed to be accidental, resulting from the fact the festival is observed in early spring.

Engineer Provides Vivid Story of PRR Crash at Capital

Washington (E)—An engineer on a runaway train testified that not until he was just outside the Washington station, and while he was hitting 70 miles an hour, did he realize his brakes had failed.

"I gave her everything I had," Harry Brower, the engineer, said, "but nothing happened." He was talking about the brakes.

The train, the Pennsylvania's Federal Express from Boston, careened on into the yards, plunging off the dead end rails and into the concourse of the Union Station. No one was killed in this spectacular wreck of Jan. 15, but more than 40 were injured.

Brower gave his testimony as the Interstate Commerce Commission opened its investigation of the crash. Much of the testimony was the same as that given at a Senate Interstate Commerce Committee hearing last week.

Brower said he didn't test his brakes after he left Baltimore. "If you had made a running test," ICC Commissioner Willard Patterson asked, "you would have discovered it?" (That is, that the brakes weren't working).

"Yes sir," Brower said.

Brower said he came in blowing a warning with his horn—"I blowed it all the way in." He said he also reversed his motor, and tried every other thing he could think of to stop the huge electric locomotive.

He estimated that by the time he reached the block at the end of the line he was still going around 35 miles an hour.

"You stayed in your engine seat all the time?"

It again was brought out that this same train had run into previous brake trouble at a place called Kingston Swamp in Rhode Island. There was no explanation of what connection, if any, there was between the trouble at Kingston Swamp and the crash at Union Station.

First Half Crown at Stake in YM-City League Game Tonight

Wills Slight Favorite Over Schoolboy Five in Title Game; Stylists and Rockets in Opener

Wills Cleaner dribblers will be a slight favorite tonight, when they appear in the feature attraction with Warren Business School for the first half championship of the YMCA-City cage loop. Tip-off time is 8 o'clock.

In the opener at 7 o'clock this evening, the Style Shop will help the Rockets open the second round of circuit play.

As a result of Wills' decisive 36-50 verdict over the Style shop in Monday night's contest, the two teams closed out first-half play with season records of eight wins and two losses apiece.

During the campaign the schoolboys received both their defeats at the hands of Wills and may be due to bump off their opponent tonight, but will be up against a rugged and steady contender. Wills beat the Business School 67 to 44 and 67 to 48, and in turn were

Many Olympians At Track Meet Tonight

New York (AP)—Olympic champions will be as common as flu bugs tonight when the 43rd annual Millrose Games open the Madison Square Garden indoor track season before an anticipated bellout crowd of 15,000.

But if everything goes according to form, Fred Dwyer, the youngster from Villanova College, will steal the thunder from the crowd who showed their heels to everyone in Helsinki last summer. Dwyer will be the favorite to defeat Don Gehrmann, four-time winner of the Wansmaker Mile, and many of the experts are predicting he'll go under 4:04, which is mighty fast stepping indoors these days.

The secondary feature will be the 600 in which Mal Whitfield, the Olympic 800-meter titlist, has promised to smash John Borica's 12-year old 1:10.2 world record. He already has done 1:11.9 and 1:12 this year, so it isn't out of the realm of possibility.

Sports Boosters Regretfully Halt Banquet Ticket Sale As Attendance Promises All High

That interest in this year's lettermen's dinner has reached a new high was indicated this morning when the Sports Boosters' Association, sponsor of the annual affair, regretfully announced that no more tickets are available.

Earl Abel, chairman of the ticket committee, canvassed the committee last night and found that the allotted quota had already been exceeded. Heggy Schmidt is chairman of the committee, assisted by Earl Abel, Fran Master-son, Tom Juliano, Allen Anderson, Creed A. Erickson, Atty. M. A. Kornreich, Dr. Charles Reese, Bill Meno, Bill Massa, Bill Rice and Rell Hoskins.

An interesting and complete program for the Feb. 4 event has been arranged, to begin as soon as the guests file into the Marconi Outing club hall and take their places at the dinner tables. With Allen Anderson and Tom Juliano in charge of the program, they are making no announcement of its content except that "Rosey" Rowswell, Pittsburgh sports broadcaster, will be the principal speaker.

Saigh's Troubles and Sale of Cardinals Attract Interest at Baseball Officials' Meeting

New York (AP)—What has been promised to be a quiet meeting of baseball officials this week ended in New York now figures to be a turbulent affair with the possible sale of the St. Louis Cardinals high on the agenda of the National League owners.

There is nothing in the books that say Fred Saigh, convicted in St. Louis yesterday of federal tax evasion, must sell the club. But the Little Cardinals' president said after being sentenced to 15 months in prison and fined $15,000: "I will have to dispose of the Cardinals. There is no way I can stay in baseball."

Baseball officials for the most part, including Commissioner Ford Frick and League President Warren Giles, declined to comment on the conviction. A source high in the sport, however, pointed out there are two possible steps that can be taken:

1. The commissioner can invoke the rule that gives him power to bar anybody from baseball on the grounds detrimental to baseball.
2. The National League executives can use a clause in their constitution to keep a person from owning a club.

The same high baseball authority said a Houston, Tex., group had made inquiries about buying the Cardinals. The Texas group was understood to have asked whether it should try to negotiate a deal directly with Saigh or talk business with the National League.

Saigh, in St. Louis, flatly stated he had made no plans as yet to dispose of his stock. He also said there are no deals pending.

While most of the available baseball officials were reserving comment, owner Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs pointed out the

Massa High Scorer, Pollard Second In League First Half

Bill Massa's 25 points against the Style Shop Monday night was just enough to give the Wills Cleaners' one-hand push shot at honors in the first half of the YMCA-City Basketball League scoring race. Massa totaled 131 points on 58 field goals and 15 free throws for a 10-game average of 13.1-10.

Youngsville's Bill Pollard, who held the lead for some time, played close second with 130 points in the same number of games for a 3-point average.

Don Baldensperger of Certified Electric piled up the highest average of 17.5-5, but participated in only five games during the half, scoring 88 points.

Name Best Players In Basketball Poll

The National Basketball Association polled six players who have been in the league six full seasons regarding an all-time team.

Joe Fuls and George Senzky of Philadelphia, Connie Simmons and Max Zaslofsky of New York, John Mahan of Boston, and Fred Scolari of Baltimore, did the voting.

The group was asked to choose five players it would most apt to pick for an important series.

Jim Pollard was a unanimous choice. Ed Macauley and George Milkan ranking close behind. Others included Bob Cousy, Joe Fuls, Paul Arizin and Bob Davies.

Culbertson Breaks Three-Game Record At Conewango Club

While pacing Otterbein's in a 4-0 whitewashing of Lundahl's in the Conewango Club Bowling league last night, Neil Culbertson shattered the alleys' three-game record with a high 694.

Culbertson fired games of 194, 233 and 267 to set the new mark.

Scoring: Otterbein's ... 834 831 969—2684
Lundahl's ... 666 696 722—2064

WARREN HIGH WRESTLERS ON MATS AT GROVE CITY TONIGHT

Coach Homer Barr is likely to make only one minor change in his lineup tonight, when the Warren High wrestling team travels to take on a highly rated Grove City squad. That would be placing Lou Cummings out of the 95-pound class into the 103 division for Wayne Miller, the latter then dropping to the lower weight.

This would be the same order these two grappled in the opening match.

So far the Dragon matmen have two victories, one loss and one tie this season. Titusville, 25-24 winners over Warren, defeated Grove City in their first encounter, 26-24, but last week the up and coming

Interstate League Seeks Sixth Team To Open '53 Season

Lancaster, Pa. (AP)—The next in a series of meetings "to settle for once and for all" the future of the Interstate Baseball League is set for York on Monday.

Yesterday's session here, the third in as many months, was adjourned without any final action pending disposition of a vital sixth franchise.

The president of the Class B circuit, Gerald P. Nugent, told club officials, "we definitely have to have six teams to operate."

As it stands the league can count on five entries although their strength is an unknown factor. Lancaster, York, and "Sunbury, Pa., and Hagerstown and Salisbury, Md., interests all expressed willingness to go ahead with plans for this summer."

However, only Lancaster, York and Hagerstown have definite working agreements with major league affiliates.

Discussion of a proposed 140-game schedule drawn up on a six-team basis was postponed until Monday.

Two definite changes have taken place since the end of the 1952 season. Harrisburg, Pa., has returned its franchise to the league after encountering financial difficulties and the Wilmington, Del., franchise was bought by a Hagerstown group headed by Eddie Kirschner.

The Allentown club was reported in a precarious position following the withdrawal of the St. Louis Cardinals from an owner-operator setup there.

However, Kirschner, who did not attend yesterday's meeting, has made it known he would be willing to shift his franchise to Allentown if he can arrange to rent the Cards' playing field there.

Club representatives were told that Hagerstown and Johnstown, Pa., are the leading prospects for the sixth spot in the league. Cambridge and Frederick, Md., were found to be interested in joining the league but neither can have a team ready for 1953.

Seton Hall Defeats Albright; To Play Villanova Saturday

Seton Hall, the nation's only undefeated major college basketball team warmed up for its crucial Saturday meeting with Villanova by drubbing Albright last night, 82-52.

Big Walter Dukes slipped in 20 points for Seton Hall, but the Pirates of South Orange, N. J., got a hint of trouble ahead when Villanova rallied in the second half to beat North Carolina State, 80-81. Villanova won on the accurate set shots of Larry Hennesey and Bob Schafer who got 21 and 20 points, respectively.

In other leading games Navy swamped Muhlenberg, 107-72; Army walloped St. Michaels (Vt.) 85-53 and Siena took Georgetown (DC) 72-57.

INDIANS SIGN THREE

Cleveland (AP)—The Indians put away the signed contracts of pitcher Bob Hooper and outfielders Jim Friedley, Herbie Adams and Al Smith today. Now they have 20 players in the fold, with 25 to go.

LOSS PARTLY OFFSET

Joe Florkowski's loss to Penn State basketball will be partly offset by the return to action of Jim Blocker, 6-4, 185-pound sophomore of Philadelphia. Blocker will be eligible for the Georgetown game, at Washington Feb. 3.

MATCHES IN MARCH

Heavier Eastern participation is expected to produce a field of well over a hundred individuals for the National Collegiate wrestling championships in Penn State's Recreation Hall, Friday and Saturday, March 27-28.

25 CONSECUTIVE WINS

Charlie Spidel's Penn State wrestling team, its record still unblemished, resumes competition against Navy at Annapolis Saturday, February 7. The Lion matmen are unbeaten in 22 consecutive matches since 1950.

The Blue and Gold outscored their opponent in every period but an even third stanza in racking up their second victory over the Newsummen for a season record of six wins and one defeat.

A local height advantage played a big role in the win as the Beaty five took a 20-13 half time lead

Plans for the horse show were brought up and further consideration will be given at the February meeting.

Youngsville Jr. High Defeats East Forest

After playing to an 8-8 deadlock in the first period, Youngsville's junior high basketballers wasted no time in gaining an 18-11 half time spread to coast home to a 41-30 victory over West Forest Junior High yesterday afternoon.

It was the third league win for the Youngsville youngsters against one defeat to West Forest.

Moronski and Oehlenschlaeger, hitting for 16 and 10 respectively, were the leaders of the Youngsville attack, while Brown and Fuelhart each tallied eight for West Forest.

Youngsville plays an exhibition contest at Corry this afternoon and will face Sugar Grove in its next league encounter on Wednesday, February 4.

Let Heat from Basement Keep Your Hot-bed Warm

Even the smallest garden can profit from a hot-bed in which plants can be started weeks earlier than seeds can be sown outdoors. The plants you grow cost a fraction of those purchased in the market.

Most economical in space, cost and upkeep, is a hot-bed built around a window opening from a heated basement, preferably a south window. In front of the window make a shallow excavation, about a foot deep. The size must be figured carefully, so that a frame set in this excavation can be covered by window or hot-bed sash. As in the case of other hot-beds, a glass substitute may be used on the sash, if desired.

Build a frame to fit in the excavation. The sides must slant sharply from a point above the window, almost to the ground. Fit the sash on this frame, using hinges at the top so the sash may easily be raised for ventilation. Earth may be banked around the frame to keep out the cold, and the sides should be as tight as possible to keep out the wind.

The frame may have to be caulked, where it joins the foundation to prevent drafts, otherwise it is built like the garden type, using a standard or odd size sash as you choose.

Heat is supplied to this bed by opening the basement window, and allowing the heated basement air to enter the bed. The window is left open at night, and may often be closed during the day, when the sun is shining on the bed. Hotbeds of this type have been tried and tested, and although they do not maintain temperatures as high as other kinds the heat will be more even, and the ventilation much better.

The main things to watch are temperature and drafts. Ventilation is necessary on warm days, and for very short periods on cooler days.

Youngsville Donors Furnish 150 Pints

Figures released by the committee in charge of the regular visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile in Youngsville yesterday indicate an all-time high for that community, when 130 pints of blood were taken. Despite about 25 cancellations because of colds, flu, and bad weather, 148 donors showed up at Youngsville Methodist church to make their offerings. Howard Lauffenburger, county chairman of the blood program, and Monty McClure, chairman of recruiting, this morning expressed delight at the fine result shown yesterday. Mrs. Orrie Maass was in charge of the program for the Youngsville area.

New Odorized Gas For Pittsburgh Customers

Pittsburgh (P)—The prospect of escaping gas going undetected will not haunt customers of Peoples Natural Gas Co. The firm said today a new, odorized gas will be put into use starting this weekend for 100,000 customers in Allegheny, Westmoreland, Washington and Greene counties. The rest of the company's 220,000 customers will get the new gas later. The gas is harmless, burns completely and has a distinct petroleum odor which will not permeate food, the company said. This odor will be detected when a gas stove is first lit, but will disappear after the gas burns.

Foreign Relations Committee Receives Letter From Dulles Vouching Loyalty

(From Page One) The Dulles letter also covered Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, President Eisenhower's choice for undersecretary of state; James Bryant Conant, named as high commissioner to Germany; and Herman Phleger, the selection for general counsel of the department. The pileup developed after the committee decided not to act on confirming any State Department appointments until the FBI had made a security check. Jaycee 4th of July Group Meets Tonight

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and others who are interested in the 1953 Fourth of July celebration, sponsored each year by the Jaycees, will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the American Legion Home. Jack Barr, who did such a magnificent job as general chairman last July, again heads the committee for this year's event and has many innovations "up his sleeve" to attract an even larger crowd than set an attendance high in July, 1952.

Mr. Barr feels that by starting work at this early date, as was done last year, many of the problems are met and overcome by early spring and summer, leaving the last few weeks free to clear up minor details and make the celebration all the more successful.

Ike Calls a White House Conference

a subject on which some congressmen believe Eisenhower may encounter serious obstacles in Congress. Former President Truman's budget earmarked $7,600,000,000 for assistance to America's allies. Some Republican legislators suggested it could be cut to five billion. Stassen, as mutual security administrator, will be in charge of allocating a large portion of what ever is appropriated. With respect to the Far East, Dulles said in his speech that the Communists feel they have an advantage in continuing the fighting in Korea and Indochina.

"I believe Gen. Eisenhower will find the ways to make the enemy change his mind in that respect so that they too will want peace," Dulles said. A White House aide said Eisenhower had read Dulles' speech before it was presented. But James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, declined to comment on an Associated Press report that Dulles' statement was based on plans for specific moves to end the fighting in Korea and Indochina.

The President is still at work on a draft of his State of the Union message, Hagerty said. He postponed yesterday's scheduled meeting with the National Security Council to devote the afternoon to it. Stevens Willing to Dispose Of Stock in Textile Co. (From Page One) for speedy confirmation of his selections for secretaries of the armed services. Eisenhower decided to send formal nominations to the Senate and, in advance of their actual dispatch, asked for hearings by the Senate Armed Service Committee on the nominees. Returns from the business will help support churches, hospitals and schools of the denomination in this country and abroad. President W. H. Branson of the Seventh Day Adventist church, who flew here from Washington, D. C., to complete the transaction, said.

History of Keeping Time Is Subject of Youngsville Talk

Adolph Aiello, proprietor of John's Jewelers in Youngsville, was the principal speaker at Tuesday evening's meeting of Youngsville Kiwanis Club, using as his topic the history of keeping time. Mr. Aiello told of primitive methods such as the cave men making use of blades of grass, and traced the evolution of timekeeping down to modern mechanisms such as he now sells. Following his talk, there was a question and answer period.

Dr. John Thompson, of Youngsville, spoke briefly about the coming visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile in Youngsville, which took place yesterday, and made a plea for donors, pointing out the new uses for the blood in combating polio and the fact that there are over 100 men in service from the Youngsville area at the present time.

Announcement was also made that the annual Boy Scout drive in Youngsville has been postponed one week to Thursday, February 19, at which time an early evening house to house canvass will be made. Previously set for February 12, the drive would have conflicted with a concert by the Warren Boy Choir to be given in Youngsville.

TRUCK DAMAGED

An Anderson Baking Company truck, operated by Thomas Craft, of Sheffield, suffered about $200 damage at four o'clock yesterday afternoon when approaching the FN crossing on Route 6 just west of Warren. The truck went into a skid on the curve at the top of the grade west of the crossing, through a guard rail, and over an embankment. Craft was uninjured.

SMALL BLAZE

Engine 3 and the emergency truck, together with equipment from Pleasant Township Volunteer Fire Department, answered a call to the Paramount Furniture Company on the south side yesterday shortly after 10 a. m. when a quantity of sawdust flared up in a furnace pipe. Firemen said the small blaze was out when they arrived, and listed no damage.

VIEW ERIE SCHOOLS

Members of the Joint Board of Education went to Erie Monday to look at high schools there in preparation for the choosing of the architect for the addition to Beaty Junior High School. Those making the trip were Carl E. Whipple, superintendent of Warren public schools; Herbert Harris, principal of Beaty Junior High School; Robert Jewell, M. G. Keller, and Lee Schaeffer, officers of the joint board; and Norman Grosch and J. R. Hanson, members of the building and grounds committee of the jointure.

TITUSVILLE INCIDENT

Titusville Herald: A violent attack with a knife on several members of his family Tuesday afternoon was culminated in police court yesterday when a Titusville man pleaded guilty to assault with intent to maim. Richard L. Schneider of 416 E. Spring street, alleged to have attacked his wife, brother-in-law and sister-in-law and cut the latter's arm with the weapon, was committed to the county jail yesterday in lieu of $1,000 bail to await action by the county court. Schneider's wife, Clara, charged that during a family argument about 2:30 p. m. Tuesday he suddenly lunged at her with the two-edged, six-inch long blade as she sat holding their baby in a rocking chair.
